Mr. Rachit Khator

(Founder & CEO of Stackby)

About the Event:

After the long break due to lockdown to kick start Startup Adda again a webinar was held on 17nd of June, 2020. Now onwards many such interactive session and activities related to startup and entrepreneurship will be held on every Wednesday. But, the fifth episode featured Mr. Rachit Kathor the Founder and CEO of Stackby. He has been in the field of entrepreneurship since he was studing in college topic of his discussion was ‘Getting from zero to one’. Through which he conveyed the message that most importantphase is going to one from zero after that going to ten is much more easy.

We had received around 50 registrations for this episode. The webinar started with the welcoming of the guest speaker, faculty member and the cheerful audience. Followed to that Rachit Sir took over to the screen and initiated the episode. In which the initial points were related to problems faced by small businesses which they face while managing their database and how he faced this same problem when he was working on a project. And how he provide solution to such problems with his product Stackby and the thereafter fourth minutes later the interactive round started where many questions arose from the audience and all were answered by our Guest Speaker.
