About the Event

R&D cell has started new event Tech-Mic under which the idea was to give students an open platform to share their views on novice subjects where students are expected to explore unknown area and share their views on that topic against the group of interested students. I&C department suggested the first topic for Tech Mic-James Webb Space Telescope. The topic was floated by student coordinators 20 days before student fraternity.

The event was started with a movie on the topic JWST made by Dhruv Rathee. The students watched the video first and then first round of fastest finger first was played by student coordinator Vansh in a very interesting manner. He designed the whole quiz in online mode where the viewers could see the answers statistics and the scored of each participants live on digital display. First five highest scored students were selected for second round where they all shared their views on the topics.

Dr. Nisha Patel ,Professor, PT Science College, Surat was invited as a jury. She has got her doctoral degree on “Studies Of Coronal Mass Ejection And Its Associated Effects”. Her research interest area are Space Weather, and Material Science. She gave brief idea about Aaditya L1 Mission launched by ISRO last month with its objective.

Summary and objective of Activities planned for Event

To ignite the students' mind to explore new technical area and give them platform to share their views on innovative topics.

Outcomes of Panel Discussion

The event had gathered good number of inquisitive participants who showed interest in searching about the topic and they took part enthusiastically sharing their views on the same. First three winners are listed here. They were given certificates and medals by jury and faculty coordinators.
