BRIEF DESCRIPTION OF EVENTS UNDER EACH DEPARTMENT

CIVIL ENGINEERING

The poster features a red brick background. At the top left is the Gujarat Technological University logo. To its right, the text 'GUJARAT TECHNOLOGICAL UNIVERSITY' is displayed in large white letters. Further right is a calendar icon showing 'FEB 2018' and '22-23'. Below this, a yellow banner contains 'GTU TECHFEST-2018' and 'SOUTHZONE-SURAT [ZONE : 5]'. The central section, titled 'CIVIL ENGINEERING DEPARTMENT', includes the motto 'Committed to create biggest creation & deepest bore holes...'. It features a 3D architectural rendering of a building and a crane. Below the rendering, the names of the Department Faculty Coordinator (Dr. Mehali Mehta) and Department Student Head (Vasu Shah and Naimesh Jariwala) are listed. To the right of the crane, the words 'TRAFFICA', 'LIFE OF PILE', 'COLREFS', 'ARTIFICE', and 'BREAKUP BRIDGE' are stacked vertically. The bottom section, also on a red brick background, states 'ORGANISED BY SARVAJANIK EDUCATION SOCIETY' and 'SARVAJANIK COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING & TECHNOLOGY'. It provides contact information for the college, including the address, phone number, and website. It also lists the Patron (Dr. Vaishali Mungurwadi), Faculty Coordinator (Dr. Jigar Sevalia), and Student Coordinators (Akshay Patel and Heena Lakwal). A QR code is present for registration, and the registration URL is provided.

4. GATE O-TARKA

- Round 1:
 1. Participants will have to write the answers on a sheet of paper.
 2. Elimination will be based on max correct answers found.
- Round 2:
 1. Qualifying teams will be given faulty circuit printed on paper and they have to solve it in least time.
 2. In this round the teams will compete with other groups.
 3. Least time taken will be chosen first.
- Round 3:
 1. Teams reaching the final round will have to make an electronic circuit from the gates ICs provided.
 2. The options of the possible circuits of the given ICs will be provided.

5. WASTE TO SHRESTHA

Prove the Electronics Laws on proteus and in final round assemble the circuit using the Junk components provided on GPB.

- Round 1:

1. Elimination round based on student's capability to prove the given Electronics laws using proteus Software.
2. The circuit simplicity and efficient output in less time will be the judging criteria.

- Round 2:

1. Qualifying teams have to make a moving model from the junk provided.
2. In this round the teams will compete for the race among the models they have made.
3. The first reaching the finish line will qualify for the next round.

- Round 3:

1. Teams reaching the final round will have to make an electronic circuit from the electronic components provided.
2. The circuit simplicity, innovative ideas, effective outputs in given time will lead to the winning position.

- Round 4:

1. Teams reaching the final round will have to implement the circuit made in round 3 on the moving model made in round 2.

1. RELAY CODING

Relay coding would be a team event and will take place in 5 rounds. The 1st round would be a quiz-solving round, in which the team members will brainstorm to crack the answers of the questions and obtain a part of the password. In the next round, there will be an off-screen coding challenge and only one member would be allowed to program. After a specific time, the next member of the same team would take over the code and start working on it with the screen on, but without compiling. In the 4th round the third member would have to debug the code and try to compile it successfully. The last round will involve the usage of the quiz answer and the output of the code altogether, to decode the correct login password for that system.

2. CRYPTO HUNT

CryptoHunt is an interesting event with a twist to the humdrum event of the classic treasure hunt. The clues for the event will be ciphered and the key would be given in the clue itself. Your mission, should you choose to accept it, is to decrypt the clues, level by level to reach the final clue. Even the hints to the algorithms that are to be used would be given in the clue, respectively.

3. CODE-LESS

As the name suggests, students had minimized the code length in whatever way they can. 2 rounds seal the deal. In the 1st round, students had reduced a pre-given code and in the 2nd round, they had written a program with the least number of characters as possible. Judgement criteria were based on correctly minimizing the code, perfect output and the time taken for that.

1. CHEMYSTRY

This event consists of three rounds which basically tests the technical knowledge of the participants. Maximum two participants are included in a team.

This event comprises of three rounds:

Quiz competition: A technical quiz (screening round). Each question is of 1 mark. Teams with maximum marks will pass to next round.

Flow sheet completion: Each group of participants who qualified in the previous round would be given an incomplete flow sheet and the participant has to complete the missing part of the flow sheet to qualify for the final round in the given time. Buzzer Round: In these round participants would be teamed in a group of two and 15 questions would be asked and team with the most points at the end of the round is the winner.

2. CHEM-E-DRIVE

This is basically a Car racing event in which chemicals are used to run the car. It is a group event and maximum 3 members can be allowed in one group
This event comprises of three rounds:

First Round: In this round every group will run their car on the given track and distance travelled by the car would be calculated. The cars which travel the maximum distance would be qualified for the next round.

Second Round: In this round some obstacles would be kept on the path. The car has to overcome those obstacles in this round. The cars which travel the maximum distance on this path would be qualified for the next round.

Third Round: In this round the participant need to claim the distance that their car can travel with obstacles on its way, and that must be travel by their car. The winner will be selected on the basis of design of their car and difference between their claim and actual distance travelled by car
